Missouri and Illinois Bounty Lands

THE subscriber has now for sale a number of the most valuable tracts, in both of those rich and improving bodies of lands, and can supply applicants with any number they may wish, and in any part of either territory. Every person who visits the Western Country, particularly those who intend settling there, should take with them a few quarter sections of those lands; every man who has a young and growing family, and can spare a few hundred dollars, should not miss the present opportunity of getting some of those lands; as it will insure to his children a greater certainty than any other investment he can possibly make for their benefit.—From the immense emigration to both Illinois and Missouri, particularly to the military lands, it is certain there must be a great rise in the price very soon, and those who miss the present opportunity, will never again have a chance to do so well. The patents will be sold very low, for cash, good notes or bonds at short dates, or bank stock in the Central Bank of Georgetown and Washington, and the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown. As I am a large dealer in Military Bounty Lands, I can supply any number that may be required.

Please to apply at my Exchange Banking House, Bridge-street, Georgetown.

SOMETHING EXTRAORDINARY.

The following communication is from a very respectable gentleman at Governor's Island, to the editors of the New-York Mercantile Advertiser:

About the last of Aug. Dennis Shepard, a Canadian, a convict at this post, called upon me for assistance; he stated that he was in constant pain, and sick at the stomach. From his statement, I conceived that his complaint would be removed by an emetic—I gave him one: the next day he called again, observing, that although he had taken the emetic, which had operated freely upon the stomach, it gave him no kind of relief; that he threw up every thing which he took, which appeared black, and, to use his expression, tasted coppery. I told him there was something which must be removed, and gave him a more powerful emetic; he called the third day, and observed that he found no relief, and that his puking continued the same—I observed to him that I had a doubt whether he took any medicine; he assured me to the contrary—I confessed to him that I was at a loss to find out the cause of his complaint—he replied, I am ashamed to tell you—Sir, says he, I have swallowed a jack knife and forty-one cents—Thinking that he meant an imposition, being a great scoundrel, I told him in plain language that I did not believe him—he offered proof, and said that he had swallowed a dozen at different times. I then enquired whether the medicine had produced any effect upon the bowels; he said it had not. How long since you have had any discharge? A fortnight. I thought as I did before.—I observed, if he had told me the truth, that in all probability it would kill him, and if it did, I would satisfy myself after his death—He replied that he expected it would, and that he had rather die than continue in that situation—I then began to think that he told me the truth—to confirm me in that opinion, one of the officers of this post told me he saw him swallow 12 of the cents at one time; another person told me he saw him swallow a jack knife—In short, he is famous for that kind of business: I have given him the name of Jack Knife.

To return, I attended strictly to his case, gave him the most drastic doses, as cathartics; repeatedly made use of other means highly stimulating. It was several days before I procured a discharge from his bowels—puking still continued. From his puking, and no discharge from the bowels, I was inclined to the opinion that the knife lay transversely in the stomach, and interrupted the passage into the bowels. As his stomach had been much relaxed by the medicines, I was of opinion that by contracting the stomach by powerful astringents, I might alter the position of the knife—this did not answer—I then concluded to continue the cathartics and injections—I examined the discharges, which were very dark and fœtid. I continued the practice until the 29th of September—in the the morning of that day he came to my quarters; I looked at him, and observed to him that he grew fat, and looked as well as any of the men, intending to report him for police duty. I again began to suspect an imposition—it will be recollected, in the former part of this case, that he had been in the habit of swallowing knives, all of which, excepting the last, he supposed had been discharged—he says, sir, you would not believe me about the knife, and handed me a jack knife and a large pen knife, which he had just discharged. Feeling an unusual sensation upon the rectum, he took an evidence—upon examining them, I found that part of the handle of the jack-knife, which is a bone, was about half destroyed, the knife a little corroded, and very black. The handle of the penknife was horn, the rivets were partly destroyed, the horn warped, and had the appearance of being boiled. I do not think of any thing material but what I have stated.—There is no doubt of the fact in my mind—no account of the cents.

Governor's Island, (N. Y.) Oct. 2, 1819.

P. S. I have just seen Shepard; he says he has still a little pain in the stomach, but well in other respects, and promises not to swallow any more knives—thinks he should have done well enough if he had not swallowed the cents.

Among the numerous new towns now erecting in our extensive country, we observe one to be called the town of Napoleon; situated on the branch of Laughery creek, in Ripley county, Indiana.

The Germans sleep between two beds; and it is related that an Irish traveller, upon finding a feather bed laid over him, took it into his head that the people slept in strata, one upon the other, and said to the attendant, "Will you be good enough to tell the gentleman or lady that is to be over me, to make haste, as I want to go to sleep."

Out of 79 deaths for the week ending 2d inst. but two were of malignant fever.

BOSTON.

I have the satisfaction of informing my country friends that, as far as my knowledge extends, no new cases of malignant fever have occurred this week in Boston. The weather is now cool. [Degrand.

The Philadelphians reward by civil appointments the services of those who have patriotically contributed to their country's glory. The present sheriff is Com. Truxton, distinguished for his bravery on the ocean during the troubles with France in '98 and '99; and at a very late meeting of the citizens to select a successor, Col. Caleb North, a veteran of the Revolution, was unanimously nominated. The introductory resolution is in these words:—

Resolved, That in our opinion, so long as there remains in our district an old Revolutionary Character, or Whig of '76, capable of filling an office of profit or trust, it is our bounden duty to give him the preference.

The 60,000 dollars debt of our corporation sinks into insignificance when compared with that of Philadelphia. Nothing relieves the oppressed so much as to know that they have fellow sufferers equally miserable. Let us say no more of our oppression.

ENORMOUS DEBT

We are informed that the debt of the corporation of Philadelphia at this time exceeds one million two hundred thousand dollars—the burden of local taxes in this city, and the vexation of their collection, falls with extreme severity on those whose income depends on industry alone and the prosperity of society. [Aurora.

THE FLORIDA TREATY.

The question respecting the Spanish treaty appears to be at length settled—information having reached Philadelphia that the King of Spain has definitively refused to ratify the Treaty for the cession of Florida, and has determined to send a special agent to assign his reason for doing it.

From the complexion of this information, though we have heard nothing officially on the subject, we incline to think it may be relied on. We shall, however, reserve further remarks on the subject, until it is made certain.

Should such be the result as is reported, we have already expressed our opinion on the course the United States would be justified in taking; and we have seen no reason to change it. On the contrary, there is the most unequivocal evidence that the sense of the country, as far as expressed, is in favor of that course. [Nat. Int.

Since the receipt of our letters of the 27th and 28th of August, from Cadiz, letters from Madrid direct, of the 13th and 20th of the same month, have been received by private hands—from which we are taught to believe that the treaty will not be ratified. The source of this information is such as we should rely on for intelligence and knowledge of that court, and its policy, over any other.

We have hitherto entertained the opinion that the treaty would be ratified—but from the respectable source that this information is derived, are inclined to place more reliance upon it than on our own opinions—which are founded on abstract ideas of the weakness and inability of Spain to resist the claims of the United States, sanctioned by the negociation of two successive treaties.

We have also learned through another channel, that Mr. Forsyth has written it as his opinion that the treaty will not be ratified.

[Aurora.

We understand that Spain will send a special messenger to the United States, to explain the reasons for her refusal to ratify the Florida treaty. She will endeavor to amuse our government with further negociation, and thus to avoid hostilities. Our decided impression continues to be, that the American executive should be authorized by congress to take possession of Florida, and proceed to the organization of a territorial government therein, as if the treaty had been ratified.

The sailing of the grand Cadiz expedition for South America, is stated in letters from that place, of the 28th of August, to have again been deferred without day; and gen. O'Donnell has been disgraced.

[Franklin Gaz.

Philadelphia, October 5.

Several letters from Madrid, dated late in August, have been received in this city per the Fanny, all of which concur in stating that there is no reason to believe that King Ferdinand would ratify the Florida Treaty. It is intimated that a Spanish envoy extraordinary will be sent to this country immediately, to explain to our government the grounds of Ferdinand's repugnance to the treaty.

Extract from Cadiz, August 28.

"The treaty has not been signed, and the famous expedition to South America has been put off for the present."

[The editor of the Ohio Register may well call the following transaction a "horrid outrage." Although Indians were the sufferers, they have in this case an equal claim upon our sympathy with the whites. The Oneida Indians inhabit the interior of the state of New-York. Their possessions are in the very centre of the state, and they are surrounded by numerous villages, with whose citizens they are in habits of the most friendly intercourse. They have public schools, and have lately located a minister of the Episcopal church in their neighborhood. We published an article a few days since from a Utica paper, which made known the pleasing fact that christianity was zealously encouraged by the tribe, and that a very great proportion of it had partaken of the communion. From their manners and habits there can be no grounds for believing that the Oneidas were the aggressors—but that the whole affair was a wanton and deliberate outrage.] Alexandria Gazette.

HORRID OUTRAGE.

An outrage of the most atrocious nature was committed on the 10th inst. in the north part of Licking county, about 12 miles from this place, upon a party of Indians, (21 in number,) belonging to the Oneida tribe of New-York, who were returning from White River, Indiana.

Two men and one woman, who were some miles behind the rest, (the situation of the woman preventing her from travelling as fast as the others,) were waylayed by a parcel of ruffians and fired at. The ball passed into the left thigh of the woman and shattered it in a most shocking manner. It was undoubtedly the intention of the ruffians to have killed the whole of them, if possible, as they were walking nearly abreast, and were fired at from a position calculated to have an equal effect upon all of them. After being reduced to this deplorable situation, the woman was brought to this place on a bier; and, two days after being wounded, was delivered of a child.—The mother and child are both living, but it is feared the former will not recover.

The villains who perpetrated this abominable crime have been arrested and lodged in the jail of Licking county to await their trial. The whole party are now here, in a very destitute condition, and it is no more than justice to remark, that the inhabitants of this village and vicinity, have rendered them every assistance which their necessities required. [Ohio Register.

A letter from an officer in the 6th regiment, attached to the Missouri Expedition, to his friend in Plattsburgh, gives some particulars of the difficulty and disasters attending the ascension of the Missouri. Major Ketchum's boat had run upon a sawyer and filled with water. His lady and children, who were on board, made their escape in a skiff. The Steam boat Expedition had burst her boiler and could not proceed. Captain Boardman had been seized with a fever, and with his lady and daughter, had been landed at Franklin. Corporal M'Daniel and six soldiers had been lost by drowning. Captain Boardman's boat, filled with provisions, arms, accoutrements, officers' baggage, &c. &c. had been totally lost. Captain B.'s son was saved by a soldier, who swam ashore with him on his back. One woman and a child were drowned, believed to be Mrs. James, of Plattsburgh. Captain B. had a year's groceries and stores on board. The writer states, with respect to country—"Let it suffice that my opinion is decidedly in favor of yours: a rich man can there better enjoy his riches—a poor man can easier better his condition; the superior advantages of this country exist only in the dreams of discontented visionaries, or in the misrepresentations of interested land speculators. The principal points which have been urged in its favor, are, its fine climate, the fertility of its soil, and the cheapness of land. It is true the winters are not so long and tedious as with you; but on the other hand, the summer has no beauties; never have I seen, or do I expect to see, one such heavenly evening as I have often enjoyed sitting in my porch by the banks of the Saranac. The rising sun has no charms—the evening closes upon a debilitated frame, overcome with weariness and lassitude from the long continuance of oppressive heat; the atmosphere is pale and sickly. Since my arrival here the weather has been uniformly hot; for a while I bore up under it, but at last I have yielded to the influence of the climate, and become as lazy as a native."

In speaking of the soil, he considers that in the aggregate, it may possibly be better than that of New-York, but the difference is by no means so great as has been represented. The grain is of loose texture, and does not weigh so much or produce so much flour by one fourth as that of more northern climates, neither is it as sweet. "The advantage of procuring land cheap no longer exists; except in some remote districts, where the produce of 10 acres will not buy a coat."

THE OHIO RIVER COMMISSIONERS.

Generals S. Blackburn and Edward W. Tupper, and Walter Lowrie, Esq. commissioners appointed by the states of Pennsylvania, Virginia and Ohio, for the purpose of examining the obstructions to navigation in the Ohio river, were in this place the last week. General Adair, the commissioner appointed by Kentucky, did not attend. The present uncommon low stage of water, gave an opportunity of investigating the local situation of the Falls more fully than might have been expected.

THE OHIO RIVER.

At no time within the recollection of the oldest inhabitants, has the Ohio river been lower than at the present time. There is scarcely water sufficient to admit of boats, of the least draft, to cross the Falls. The steam boats are, in every instance, laying by waiting a rise of the river. The season continues uncommonly dry in this section: and we are informed by travellers, that stock are in many instances suffering with the drought.

JOHN CLEVES SYMMES.

That persevering philosopher, John Cleves Symmes, has not yet set out on his travels to the interior of the earth, for no other reason probably than because the incredulous world will not furnish a sufficient number of enterprising choice spirits to accompany him.—He continues however to inform and amuse the public by his speculations respecting concentric spheres and hollow planets. He has recently published a long essay to show that the rays of the sun may warm and enlighten the inner world through the openings at the poles, which he supposes to be from one to two thousand miles in diameter. He says "there must of necessity be relatively three summers and three winters, each year, close under the polar verges in the concave." He concludes his article with the following amusing paragraph. [Western Monitor.

"A stranger lately accosted me in the street, and declared that he believed my theory true, because, said he, the heat always rises, therefore the earth could not continually yield it, as is certainly the case—unless the sun shone in at the poles, so as to produce heat within; and he added that a pot of water would not get hot, nor ice readily melt, by building a fire over, or on them.—Although I do not fully concur in the application he makes of his position, yet I find reason to believe, that all the heat which comes out of the earth, has not previously entered the surface here."

New-York, Aug. 6.

At this season of calamity and distress, it is painful to hear of attempts to plunder and of plundering in the lower part of the city.—At an early hour on Monday evening, a woman, deaf and dumb, entered a shoemaker's shop in Water-street, enquiring for shoes:—while the foreman was in the act of counting his money and placing it in his pocket-book, which was soon done, and in the hurry to serve the unfortunate mute, he passed from one counter to the other to supply her with what she wished: his back was scarce turned before the book was dexterously placed in her pocket. She examined his shoes with attention, and after a long and extensive examination could not find any to suit, when with much courtesy she withdrew. The shoemaker immediately went in search of his pocket-book—but alas! it was gone: he hastened to the door, and discovered the unfortunate woman, in company with another woman of color. With the use of threats, the valuable contents of the book were restored, except two dollars, and the culprits permitted to go at large

A number of old revolutionary pensioners are now in town, and have excited considerable interest in the public feeling. Yesterday, two of these veterans met in State-street, each of them upwards of 70 years of age, who had not seen each other for nearly 40 years; their feelings can better be imagined than described. One of them was a drummer, and the other a fifer, in the revolutionary army, who calling to mind their former friendship and employment, borrowed a drum and fife, and retiring into a back yard in State-street played the Reveille, and other airs, which recalled to their minds the ardor which inspired their bosoms, in the trying scenes of the Revolution, the pride of which was not then extinct, and gave delight to the numerous persons who witnessed the interesting scene. DIED,

In the Leesburg jail, on the 29th ult. Mr. Samuel Gray, of Waterford. A coroner's inquest was held over the body. They returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by a violent blow on the head.

Here we see the fruits of intemperance.—The race ground was the scene of action.—Gray had quaffed the inebriating bowl until nearly deprived of the use of his limbs and senses. A man by the name of Kid, whose senses were also steeped in the noxious fumes of whiskey, under some mistaken notion of an injury received, struck this stupid monument of intoxication, with a fire brand, which fractured his scull, and caused his death.—Gray, at a late hour in the night was found in our streets, completely senseless, his eyes black and swollen, and the image of death stamped upon his countenance. In this situation he might have ended his misery in a few short hours, had not the compassion of two young men brought them to his assistance—with much difficulty they got him to the only asylum open for his reception, viz. the jail. He was lodged in a room with three blacks, to whom the young men gave some money to furnish candles and to attend to him during the night. He was afterwards removed into a more comfortable apartment, and every attention paid him by the physicians and a few humane individuals, that his situation would permit, until his decease.

What is the duty of the overseers of the poor? Does not a case like this come under their cognizance? Is there no other place than the jail for the relief of suffering humanity? Is there no provisions made in the county of Loudon for extraordinary cases of this kind? Must the poor, the unfortunate, the distressed, the suffering victims of imprudence expire in our streets, or be thrust into jail like criminals? Does this look like fulfilling the divine command—"Do unto others as you would others should do unto you!"

Kid has made his escape.

Infantry of the line, 58 regiments; national infantry, called frontier regiments, 17; tyrolese chasseurs, 1; cuirassers, 8; dragoons, 6; light horse, 7; hussars, 12; hulans, 4; field artillery, 5: garrison do. 14; croats, 1 battalion; chasseurs, 12; and the corps of engineers. The oldest of the regiments were formed during the 30 years war, which lasted from 1618 to 1648.

BERLIN.

The project of a constitution for the whole Prussian monarchy has been submitted to the inspection of the king. The spirit on which it is founded, as we are informed, is of the most liberal nature, conformable to the spirit of the age and to the wishes of the people. Thus, Prussia is about to rank amongst the nations which enjoy the blessings of a representative government.

We expect the most salutary results from this measure, not only to Prussia, but to Germany in general.

GEN. SIMON BOLIVAR.

Simon Bolivar, for some years Supreme Chief, but now elected to the more enviable rank of President of the Venezuelian Republic, and "Captain Gen. of its armies," was born in Caraccas, and is not in any respect an adventurer. The indefatigable promoter during fifteen years of the freedom of his country, he now assumes the attitude of a second Washington. Sprung from a noble family, he inherited a patrimony yielding 200,000 dollars of yearly income, which he has in part consumed, for the success of an enterprize, the idea of which struck him in the midst of the pleasures and amusements of Paris, whither he he had repaired for the completion of his education. He was very well known about 12 or 15 years ago in the societies of Paris. He was then about twenty-two or twenty-three years of age. He had a Spanish face, of a very agreeable expression, with black eyes, lively and ardent, regular features, middle size, great facility of elocution, brilliant imagination, a bold character, which had not been at all affected by the manner in which he had been brought up. Of a generous disposition, his first great public act was the emancipation of all his slaves, amounting to several hundreds. He is steady in the pursuit of what he considers right, just in his decisions and scrupulously observant of his promises. He speaks French as well as any Englishman or Spaniard generally does. He is active, eager for instruction, and on a level with the knowledge of his age. While in Paris he attended all the lectures and initiated himself into all the modern discoveries. The intimate friend of the illustrious Humboldt and of Boupland, with whom he for a long time travelled; he traversed, to study mankind, through France, England, Italy, Switzerland, and part of Germany. Under these circumstances he first started, and under the auspices of General Miranda, who put into his hand that sword which hitherto he has so well wielded. The tastes and habits of his early life appeared to point him out for a different destiny. The Minister for Foreign Affairs of Venezuela, M. Pollacio, is an old companion and friend of the President Bolivar. In France he lived along with him, and is also a man of an elevated and enlightened mind.

THOMAS PAINE.

A friend has put into our hands the following account of the close of Tho. Paine's life. The arch infidel trembles as he approaches the precipice of eternity.

Some account of Thomas Paine, received from Mary Roscow.

"After Willet Hicks' family began to visit him, which was previous to his death, they being near neighbors, at Greenwich, he was much engaged in writing, which he performed with great difficulty, bolstered up in his bed, with something placed before to rest his paper on; his shoulders also being stiff, so that he could not move them; which, together with what M. Roscow saw, convinced her beyond a doubt, that he was spending his little remaining strength, to leave behind him proof of the abhorrence of those principles which he had much of his life been endeavouring to inculcate. This circumstance occasioned M. Roscow to be less careful to preserve or remember what she saw and heard. But what came of the manuscript has not been fully ascertained, but it is reported and believed that it was sent to a certain printer in this city (New-York) since deceased, and while preparing for the press, was purchased at a considerable price by some of Paine's former friends, and suppressed. The first time M. Roscow saw him, she was returning from meeting, and when nearly opposite the house where he resided, a person who was also passing observed with thoughtless vulgarity, that Paine looked like the devil—he was not then in sight, but a voice from the door replied if he only looked like him it would do. She then perceived that the identical person was at the door, which before was hid from their view by the trees, and overheard their conversation.

"During the time of Paine's illness, M. Roscow was unwell, and the physician who attended him was called to her; she asked how Paine was, the doctor replied, very ill—we (meaning the physicians) think we have never seen such a suffering object; but he tells me to-day, added he, that his bodily distress is nothing compared to that of his mind. When she had recovered she went to see him in another apartment, & found a French woman, who had accompanied him from France, wringing her hands and lamenting that she had forsaken her husband, friends and religion, to embrace the principles of Paine—that she had spent three years in following him, but now he told her those principles would not stand, and charged her not to build upon them; and now, says she, I have none to look to. There was a statement in one of the newspapers a few weeks previous to his death, that two clergymen came to see him, and that he treated them very roughly. M. Roscow asked him if it was correct; he told her it was not, but that he had sent for a clergyman, who came attended by a deacon or elder, and supposing Paine wished him to proceed in the usual manner, proposed prayer. Paine told him he did not send for him to pray, as he did not conceive any form of prayer invented by man could avail; but that his motive for sending for him was for the relief of his own mind, to correct an error, which he supposed him (the priest,) to be in. And then asked him if he thought he was authorised by Christ to preach—this offended the priest, and he withdrew. Paine remarked that he much preferred the priest to himself, but fearing his being in an error, might be an injury to others. The last visit she made him, on entering the door, she perceived him to be in supplication; she usually found him in prayer or writing, and turned to go out; but his nurse spoke to him, and said there was a friend from Mr. Hicks come to see him. He paused and asked her to walk in and come near him, saying, I hope you are a friend to God and to Christ—and after another pause, asked her if she had ever read any of Paine's writings. She replied she had, when she was very young. He queried what she thought of them. She replied, dost thou really wish to know what I thought? I trust you are one who has bought the truth, and would not sell it to please such a vagabond as I am. She then told him, that for days after perusing it, she could not think a good thought but some of his reasonings would twine round and repel it; and seeing the other children of the family eager to take it up, she could find no peace until she had committed it to the flames.—He then made an exclamation denoting the horror of his mind, saying it had been better for my soul at the present day, if all the world had, like you, destroyed them. But the world was glad to have it so;—adding, if ever Satan had an instrument upon the earth, to lead into the ways of darkness, I have been one; I have passed many sleepless nights in endeavoring to prevent the right way. And when she took her leave of him, he requested her to ask Mr Hicks to com and see him, saying I love to have him by me, for which he sits by my side, although he says but little, it seems as though the devil himself was silenced, and I feel as though I could do nothing but pour out my cries and tears before God. At another time, when some of Willet Hicks' family were there, one of Paine's former friends and adherents came and opened the door, but on seeing them he called out roughly. "Paine I have heard five lies about you;—one is that you are dead—another, that you have recanted and turned quaker—as you have lived like a man, I hope you will die like one." Paine said, you see how I have lived; this has been my heaven; these my friends, can do nothing now but afflict me. He wished Willet Hicks to endeavor to obtain permission for his interment in Friend's burying ground. Willet let him know he hardly thought it probable it would be granted, stating his reasons; and on applying, found Friend's sentiments as he expected, of which he informed Paine. He was affected with the result, but thought it just; afterwards left directions to be interred on his own farm at New Rochelle, giving the field, by will, for the place of interment for poor strangers."

Drifted or was Stolen,

FROM my landing on the Potomac, about one mile from Maryland Point, on Tuesday night, the 28th September, a small northern built YAWL BOAT, quite new, black gunwales; the seats, and her inside, as low as the seats, of a leaden color; and, I think, her gunwales on the outside of a cream color below them, for a short distance, of a leaden color; her bottom, both within and without, turpentine or varnish. I purchased her about the 22d or 23d of July of Mr. E. Corning, Alexandria. I will give five dollars for the boat alone, if brought home uninjured—and if stolen I will give ten dollars for the boat and conviction of the thief.

Correct Information.

THE stock advertised for sale by the Mechanics' Bank as standing in our name, is not our property. Our stock note thereon has been continued, under heavy and disproportioned curtailments, ever since March 1818, for the use of the real owner, a respectable mechanic of this place, because he could not obtain leave, upon a transfer, to substitute his stock note for our's. We have no interest in said stock beyond the sum that will retire the said stock note, and we do not think it proper to advance more money than we have done for curtailments.

Public Sale.

BY virtue of a deed of trust from John M'Pherson, to secure the payment of a debt to the late William Hepburn, his heirs and executors, the subscriber (one of the trustees named in the said deed) will offer at public sale, on the premises, on THURSDAY the fourth day of November next, a TRACT of LAND, in Fairfax county, Virginia, about five or six miles from the town of Alexandria, known by the name of "Mount-Hebron," or so much thereof as may at that time be thought advisable to make sale of.

The improvements on the premises are—two dwelling houses, one of them of brick; a small country mill, with one pair of stones; a saw mill; and a building lately occupied as a cotton factory, with an extensive orchard of various kinds of fruit.

The terms of sale and any other necessary information will be given on the day of sale.

Valuable Land for Sale.

PURSUANT to a decree of the Superior court of chancery for the district of Fredericksburg in Virginia, the undersigned commissioners will proceed to sell at public auction, upon a credit of one, two, and three years, at Middleburg, in the county of Loudon, on Thursday the 18th day of November next, lying in the neighborhood of Middleburg.—The whole land is of that quality termed plaister land, and susceptible of high improvement by the use of it. The whole will be laid out into small tracts, of from two to three hundred acres each, and sold in separate tracts to suit purchasers. The whole is well watered, and no country is more healthy. Captain Pickett, who lives near the land, and who is employed to make a survey of it; and Mr. Sommers, who is the agent for the collection of the rents, will shew the land to those who may be inclined to purchase. Bond and security, and a deed of trust upon each tract, will be required of the purchaser.

4000 Acres of Land,

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.

Charles County, Md. June 1.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment.

June 11 tf

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS.
Rev. Wm Hawley, Washington,
Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria,
Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria,
Rev Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publecation will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity whcih teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.
